It's unnecessary to open the command prompt as an administrator. You do need to add the path though, and that's the part that got me. So rather than opening the prompt each time as an admin and then having to add the openssl path each time you just need to edit your system environment variables and add the path as instructed: `OPENSSL_CONF=c:[PATH TO YOUR OPENSSL DIRECTORY]\bin\openssl.cfg`

WARNING: can't open config file: /usr/local/ssl/openssl ...

Visual studio is 'warning' me that I am disposing of fs more than once. You are, but that is fine. The documentation for IDisposable.Dispose reads:. If an object's Dispose method is called more than once, the object must ignore all calls after the first one. The object must not throw an exception if its Dispose method is called multiple times.. Based on that, the warning is bogus, and my ...

Hey Bob, I think you're maybe over-thinking & dealing with semantics here. Clearly VBScript is the dominant language for Classic ASP. As for data types, yes there may be a fine distinction, but the truth is that the distinction doesn't really matter when the end goal is to correctly translate the value into another format.
